

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Hydrogen stored in a high-pressure tank 21 is supplied to an MH tank 31 to be occluded. Cooling water of a cooling system
5 C1 for a fuel cell 10 is heated through the heat generated at this time to warm-up the fuel cell. By such a configuration, the fuel cell can be warmed up without consuming the valuable hydrogen.

201210-02/95001
10056720-012402